14:54:01 From Liz Woodward, MD Dpt. of Aging : To clarify, both versions of the Village pilot bill, introduced by Senator Ariana Kelly and Delegate Sarah Wolek, passed out of their houses of origin before Monday's "crossover" bill deadline. They now are quickly moving forward without further debate or amendments in the opposite houses. These bills are on excellent footing as of today, and are very likely to pass by the end of legislative session, 4/18.

14:58:05 From Sharon Johnson : I agree with Arkia, and have experienced here in Greenbelt that making personal phone calls and even taking a step further with home visits to start building the relationship...and making older adults aware of the village support available.

15:00:28 From Christal Batey : One of the things that would be helpful is a series of PSA from the Administration educating the community about villages. This would legitimize villages and potentially link people to resources.

15:29:23 From Elizabeth Haile - WAVE & Bethesda Metro Area Village : One thought is that although some seniors are not returning to in person events, the virtual options are sometimes better. ie you can hear, you can attend even if you cant get out, etc. Being in-person is absolutely critical for health longterm, but for some events, having that option to meet virtually is a lifeline.
